Keynote: Keeping Orange County Moving

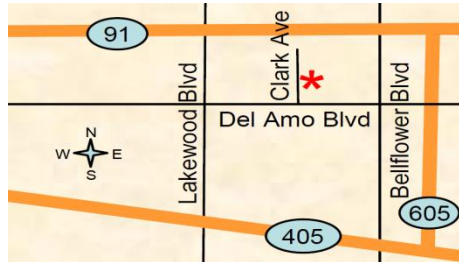

Will Kempton
 CEO, Orange County
 Transportation Authority

Will Kempton is chief executive officer of the Orange County Transportation Authority (OCTA), a countywide transportation agency with 1,900 employees and an annual budget of $1.2 billion. Under the direction of the Board of Directors, he is responsible for planning, financing and coordinating Orange County's freeway, street and rail development as well as managing bus services, commuter-rail services, paratransit van service for people with disabilities and a host of other transportation programs. He has served in the position since August 2009.

Prior to joining OCTA, Mr. Kempton served as the director of the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans), administering an annual operating budget of more than $13.8 billion with $10 billion worth of transportation improvements under construction and 22,000 employees. In January 2003, Mr. Kempton joined the City of Folsom as assistant city manager for community services. In 1985, Mr. Kempton was named executive director of the Santa Clara County Traffic Authority, the state's first local sales tax program. The program he managed is widely viewed as one of the most successful in the state, resulting in the delivery of nearly $1 billion in highway improvements in less than 10 years. As city manager, Will directed the operations of the city's Community Development. Mr. Kempton resides in Orange County with his wife, Beverley. They have two adult children, Mark and Christina.
