PRESENTS

2012 LEGACY GALA

HOW THE ORANGE PUBLIC LIBRARY FOUNDATION HELPS

Thanks to your participation in this Gala, the Orange Public Library Foundation will be making a substantial donation towards the acquisition of eBooks for the Orange Public Library in the year ahead.

Over the years the Library Foundation has donated more than one million dollars in cash and in-kind contributions towards the construction and renovation of the Orange Public Library & History Center. We continue with these efforts, and additionally have added new donor funding opportunities through the creation of endowments that, as they grow, will serve as secure and reliable funding sources for future library needs.

The Library Foundation has provided hundreds of kids and families with free entertainment at the Annual Summer Family Film Fest, with our screenings of current, animated feature films. The Fourth Annual Summer Family Film Fest begins this year in June with a new sponsor, the National Charity League's Orange – Villa Park Chapter.

Thanks to a significant donation from The Lloyd E. and Elisabeth H. Klein Foundation, the Library Foundation will be making a number of substantial donations to the Orange Public Library for books, film screenings, and other items specifically for children's and teens' collections and programs.

Each year the Library Foundation in partnership with St. Joseph Hospital Foundation, presents the free money management workshops, It's Your Money and It's Your Estate, to our community. Hundreds have attended and benefitted from these educational opportunities.

This year the Library Foundation successfully launched the First Annual Winter Documentary Film Festival. All of our feature-length films were multiple award-winners, with a common theme of people who overcame obstacles to achieve their dreams. Attendance was beyond our expectations. This program was made possible with donations from The Joe MacPherson Foundation, SA Recycling, and Frank & Shannon Tucker.

LEADERSHIP LEGACY AWARD

FORMER MAYOR JOANNE KOONTZ

Joanne Coontz was the first directly elected woman mayor in Orange County, but her activism in the City of Orange started way before then. Joanne has served on numerous City, County and School District committees and in countless philanthropic organizations that have honored her service.

Beginning in 1986, Joanne served three 4-year terms as City Councilmember and three 2-year terms as Mayor before retiring from the City Council in 2004. She was the first elected Orange Councilwoman and female Chair of the Orange Planning Commission.

A dedicated library supporter, Joanne was responsible for diligently promoting the building of Orange's first branch library – the Charles P. Taft Branch (opened 1969). In 1998, she established the Orange Public Library Foundation, an organization she envisioned to meet the needs of the city's library facilities and services and to honor the community's historic past. As President of the Orange Community Historical Society, she was given the prestigious William T. Glassell Award for her efforts in preserving local history.

Joanne also has donated many items of historical significance to our library's local history collection. The Former Mayor Joanne Coontz Reading Room was funded by generous donations from, and in honor of, Joanne Coontz, which included contributions from more than 150 community residents and businesses.

Joanne served with distinction on the Library Foundation's Board of Directors as Vice President for several years. We honor this remarkable community leader with the 2012 Community Legacy Award to celebrate her decades of leadership and special dedication to our libraries!

2012 LEGACY AWARD RECIPIENTS

EDUCATIONAL LEGACY AWARD

ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL FOUNDATION

St. Joseph Hospital Foundation (SJHF) has been an invaluable partner with the Orange Public Library Foundation since 2008 in providing educational seminars, free and open to the public, on a variety of important topics – a goal shared by both organizations.

Dedicated to the philanthropic support of St. Joseph Hospital since its founding in 1970, SJHF provides that support through the development of charitable contributions as well as through creating community awareness of and involvement in the hospital.

Four years ago, SJHF invited the Orange Public Library Foundation to partner with them in bringing to Orange two series of workshops, entitled “It’s Your Money” and “It’s Your Estate,” respectively. Each eight-week series promotes self-awareness of financial and estate planning, provides practical suggestions on how to find competent and ethical advisors, and encourages tax-wise charitable giving. Participants are comfortable knowing that no products are sold and no charitable donations are solicited.

Since 2008, approximately 500 individuals from our community have attended and benefited from these free, educational seminars. Through this 2012 Educational Legacy Award, the Orange Public Library Foundation honors St. Joseph Hospital Foundation for the collaboration that makes making such important information so readily available to local residents.

LOCAL HISTORY LEGACY AWARD

THE MEAD FAMILY

Orange Park Acres plays an important part in the history of the City of Orange. Yet little original source material and interpretive information about that area’s historic past has been available in Orange Public Library’s local history archives... until now.

Thanks to the generosity of the Mead Family, the library’s archives now contain a historical treasure trove of materials about the area. The area was obtained by the Mead family and two partners in approximately 1912. Frank F. Mead, Sr. and one of the partners joined their larger interests in 1928 and brought water into the area of Santiago Creek near Prospect Avenue. The valley was planned, planted and named Orange Park Acres, the part of town long beloved for its more rural lifestyle.

Included in the Meads’ donated collection are: documents; tract maps; memorabilia; books, pamphlets, and sales brochures; and aerial photos. There are also wonderful photos of Mead family members.

Frank F. Mead, Jr. and his two sisters purchased 120 acres, east of Orange Park Acres, in 1952 and referred to it as the “Day Ranch” after the seller, Orville Day. They developed a well system that accumulated irrigation water in a central lake that the three partners built, as the ranch was developed into citrus. That parcel was subsequently purchased from the Mead family and developed by Broadmoor Homes into a lovely City of Orange residential area.

A number of Mead Family members, located throughout Southern California, recognized the importance of preserving this unique and priceless documentation of a key part of East Orange for generations to come. During the past year, they have donated their original items, or allowed copies to be made, for Orange Public Library’s archives. Eventually these materials will be made accessible, free of charge, for use by researchers and the general public. Photos will also be made available online, on the library’s local history website (www.cityoforange.org/localhistory).

The Orange Public Library Foundation presents the 2012 Local History Legacy Award to the Meads for so generously sharing their family history in a way that provides a lasting heritage about Orange Park Acres and the “Day Ranch.”

MAJOR DONORS, 2002 - 2012

The following individuals, families, businesses & organizations generously contributed to the Orange Public Library Foundation's fundraising to support the Orange Public Library & History Center (Main Library), which re-opened in April, 2007 after its expansion and renovation. We celebrate their 10 years of support!

Answer your questions.

Expand your horizons.

Discover your world at the Orange Public Library & History Center.

Goal of the Library Legacy Campaign:

To provide funding, in perpetuity, for book collections, music, DVD's, technology, and facility needs for Orange's Public Libraries.

There are many ways to give!

Charitable Gift Annuities: A contract between you and OPLF that will provide you and/or your named beneficiary with a guaranteed lifetime income in exchange for a charitable gift. Most gift annuity programs do not make the charitable gift amount available until after the annuitant passes away. Through a partnership with the Orange County Community Foundation, the "charitable gift amount" can either be directed to support the Orange Public Library Foundation endowment in the future or be distributed immediately to support current programs and operations.

Pooled Endowment Funds: Generates interest, which is utilized to support key Orange Public Library initiatives for purchase and preservation of books and materials, children's programming, and technology. A donation of $5,000 or more sets up an individually named account that is collectively invested in perpetuity. Two such accounts already exist: One for local history, and one for library books and materials.

Public-Use Computers: Supported at $2,500 apiece, with the donor recognized by name on a special wall plaque.

Furniture: Tables and chairs throughout the libraries - may be named for $750 to $5,000 apiece, depending on the item. The donor will be recognized by name on a special wall plaque.

Local History Display Cases (4): Located in the Lobby of the Orange Public Library & History Center and are available for permanent naming recognition at $20,000 apiece. These walnut display cases contain rotating exhibits about Orange's unique history.

Adopt-A-Stack Endowments: Providing more books, music, and/or DVDs in the subject area of the donor's greatest interest. A $25,000 contribution (payable over several years if desired) is recognized with the donor's name on a plaque on a library bookcase.

Naming Opportunities: Many are still available at the Orange Public Library & History Center (Main Library) for major areas within that building. Call us at 714.288.2470 for more information

*Please seek the advice of a competent tax professional before you enter into any gift annuity agreement.
