Finding NEW ways to do things - being innovative – is more than ever being recognized as the most important factor in determining the success of companies large and small. So, what does it take to be an innovator in our own organizations? Internationally renowned speaker and NOCSC Member Barbara Walling from UCI Healthcare will present ideas on novel approaches each of us can use with our organizations to enhance innovation, ignite creativity, and inspire our own agencies to thrive and bloom big and bright in the competitive Orange County marketplace.
