“Recycling” Water in Orange County

Scott Lynch, Water Reuse California Orange County Chapter

With climate change threatening to diminish water supplies in our fast growing communities, more cities are considering the potential of reclaimed water. Come hear the background on recycled water in the State of California, the current recycled water use levels in Orange County, the current challenges/limitations to implementation of reuse projects and the drivers for reuse, the expansions of recycled water in Orange County, the indirect and direct Potable Reuse Regulations and Water Reuse Initiatives, and the Regulatory happenings in recycled water.

Orange County’s 2012 Annual Ocean, Harbor, and Bay Water Report

Larry Honeybourne, OC Health Care Agency

The County’s annual report provides updated ocean water quality information from Health Care Agency’s Ocean and Bay Monitoring and Public Notification (AB411) Program. Come discuss water quality trends, historical perspectives, sewer overflows, collaborative monitoring programs, health related studies, public notification and outreach, and recent changes in recreational water quality standards.
