COASTAL LIVING UNLIKE ANY OTHER

In 1834, Richard Henry Dana discovered Headlands point and called it the most romantic place along the California coast.

Today, nestled along the stretch of white sand beach, The Strand at Headlands represents home to a stunning new community that embodies the best of coastal living.

Surrounded by 70 acres of open space, linked by three miles of coastal trails, five public parks and more than 1.5 miles of shoreline leading to the iconic Headlands landmark.
